David Belasco will present David Warfield, his great character actor, at the opera house next Tuesday evening. The famous Belasco star will appear in the new play called "A Grand Army Man," written by David Belasco and Misses Pauline Phelps and Marion Short. This attraction has been selected to open early in October at Belasco's new theatre, the Snyvesant, in West 44th street, New York. This magnificent new theatre, said to be the most artistic in the world, will be occupied for a long time by David Warfield in "A Grand Army Man." Only a few cities in New England will be played, allowing time for the interior decorators to put the finishing touches on the Snyvesant. Tickets now on sale at the box office.

Love and pathos intermingled with contagious humor, framed in a picture of rural simplicity, are the rudiments of success of "Along the Kennebec," the newest New England play, which will be the attraction at the opera house next Saturday afternoon and evening. No play written on this popular theme has proven more successful, and it bids fair to rival in popularity the most attractive plays of modern times. Special care has been taken securing the company and the scenic production is unsurpassed. The piece is full of good bright comedy, and the funny duel scene causes screams of laughter. The company carries an unusually good band and orchestra this season.
